INDEX OF PLACES.

The sincere thanks of the Editor are due to Miss A. G. Gilchrist, F.S.A., who has carefully perused this Index and identified many places of doubtful situation. The following notes have been supplied by her.

PREFATORY NOTES.

It has been suggested that identification of the less known places to which the Freemen of Lancaster belonged might be of some value to those interested in the Burgesses themselves. So where possible such identifications have been inserted, the system adopted being as follows:

1. Editorial identifications of the localities of these place-names are set within square brackets. All others, unbracketed, are taken from the Burgess list itself and have been left as found.

2. The modern standard form of each place-name (when known) is placed first, variants following within curved brackets or else being referred to the modern form.

3. When such commonly distributed place-names as Newton, Poulton, Burton, Bolton etc. occur it has here as a rule been assumed that the name indicates the place most familiar and nearest to Lancaster, except when otherwise specified in the Burgess List.

4. The List will sometimes provide a clue from which the locality may be determined. For example, a Freeman's sons are more likely to be settled in an adjacent hamlet or parish when they in turn become Freemen than in some other place of the same name much further away.

5. Some of these Freemen's homes were such small places that they have not been easy to discover. 'Hall' often means no more than a substantial stone house or farmstead. There are many 'halls' of this type in Lancashire and Westmorland.

6. Variant or local forms of the place-names frequently reproduce, with more or less faithfulness, the local pronunciation, e.g. Quarmore (Quernmore).

7. '-Set,' '-side,' and 'shead,' as the second element of place-names in the List—e.g. Burneside, Swainshead, Tosset—are often confused in their later forms, the original meaning generally being some particular settler's seat, farm, or shieling.

Though annotations are not within the scope of the Index, some of the place-names here recorded are of curious interest. Two examples may be given.

Golgotha and the modern Golgotha Road still point to the former place of executions (till 1800) on Lancaster Moor. New Hollins, Forton, is several times mentioned in the early eighteenth century in Tyldesley's Diary as a public-house to which he resorted. It now figures as the New Holly inn, on the E. side of the main road, and till recently displayed a large green holly-tree as a painted sign which has now unhappily disappeared. Old Hollins or Holly (there was also Middle Holly) is now the Hamilton Arms on the W. side of the road—the Duke of Hamilton having formerly owned property in this part of Lancashire.

An asterisk denotes the name occurs more than once on a page.

REPORT FOR THE YEAR ENDING 30 JUNE, 1936
(58th YEAR).

Read at the Annual Meeting, held at the Athenaeum, Liverpool, on 23 October, 1936.

DURING the year two volumes were issued to members, namely:—

No. 86. Cheshire Inquisitions Post Mortem, 1603-1660, Vol. II, E-O. Edited by R. Stewart-Brown, M.A., F.S.A.

No. 87. Rolls of the Freemen of Lancaster, Part I. Edited by T. Cann Hughes, M.A., F.S.A.

Of the volumes for the current year, one (No. 88. De Hoghton Deeds and Papers. Edited by J. H. Lumby, M.A.), is already in the hands of members. The second volume (No. 89. Prescott Court Rolls. Edited by F. A. Bailey, M.A.), is in an advanced state.

The cost of printing both these volumes has been defrayed by the generosity of Mr. Robert Gladstone, B.C.L., M.A. It may be mentioned that, in addition to this gift, Mr. Gladstone has devoted time to the storage of the stock of this Society and has met the cost of despatching a large number of old volumes to members requiring them, as well as presenting the Society with official letter paper.

It is hoped that at our next meeting the printing of a volume of Cheshire Pipe Rolls covering the period 1153 to 1300 can be decided upon. Miss M. H. Mills, M.A., F.S.A., has located and transcribed in extended form, all the extant entries upon the Pipe Rolls from 1237 to 1300 relating to Cheshire. There are none between 1254 and 1270 when the county was in the hands of Prince Edward. Such few Cheshire accounts as exist before 1237 will be included and taken, with the consent of the Pipe Roll Society, from the versions already in print, which have been checked for marginal notes omitted and other matters against the original rolls. Miss Mills has also compared the material copied by her with the corresponding entries on the Chancellor's Rolls. A few of the accounts have yet to have their final debits traced and cleared up, and the dates of all require verifying and checking.

Mr. R. Stewart-Brown has written notes upon all the accounts, but these want some amplification and revision. It is proposed that Miss Mills should write a short memorandum upon (1) the tracing of the Cheshire entries which has involved much work as they were not found under a Cheshire county-heading, but upon the rolls of several other counties; and (2) certain matters and features of interest in Pipe Roll procedure and practice which they have revealed.

Messrs. Ruddock of Lincoln, the printers for the Pipe Roll Society, have been consulted, but the time is not yet ripe for a formal estimate.

The material provides interesting and important information, almost entirely new, for the history of Cheshire and North Wales, and, with the addition of the first Cheshire Chamberlain's Account, recently discovered and transcribed by Mr. Stewart-Brown, will link up the Pipe Roll entries with the Chamberlains' Accounts, 1301-1360, published in volume 59 of this Society, which superseded the entries upon the Pipe Rolls. Very few thirteenth century Pipe Roll accounts have been published, and no so lengthy a series, by any Society.

The Society is indebted to Mr. J. P. Smith for the transcripts of the Rolls of the Freemen of Lancaster, and for a donation of £25 towards the cost of printing them.

During the year 6 new members joined or rejoined, 3 resigned or died, and the present membership is 122.
